

The California State Historical Resources Commission's Statement of the New Albion Landmark Nomination

This screenshot from the California Office of Historic Preservation website encapsulates New Albion, now codified as California Historical Landmark number 1061.

New Albion is the landing site and encampment of Sir Francis Drake's expedition to California in 1579, located in the coast of Marin County. This was the site where Drake met with the Coast Miwok people. The site is a National Historic Landmark and is significant for its association with an individual or group, Sir Francis Drake and the voyage of the Golden Hind, who had a profound influence on the history of California.

The screenshot was taken from the 2020 Actions Taken webpage under the August 14, 2020 SHRC Meeting heading in the section Properties Nominated as California Historical Landmarks. One may access the webpage here:
